West Central Vermont CEDS now available for review & comments

A draft CEDS is now available for review at CEDS Draft Material — West Central Vermont CEDS (westcentralvt.org) and we are soliciting your feedback!

Feedback can be provided a few ways: -

Via email to info@westcentralvt.org

- Via Konveio, an online platform used to collect and aggregate public comment.

A brief video available at <https://www.westcentralvt.org/ceds-draft-material> provides an overview of the intent and purpose of the West Central Vermont CEDS. Other available videos provide a review of our public engagement process, key findings, and review of proposed goals and actions.

Please keep in mind that the Vermont Professionals of Color Network are hosting community conversations with the BIPOC business community to help inform this plan. This feedback is happening over the summer and will be incorporated into the Plan in September. Some additional information about the West Central Vermont CEDS:

What is the West Central Vermont Region?

The West Central Vermont Region includes Addison County, Central Vermont (Washington County and three Orange County towns), Chittenden County, and Rutland County.

What is a CEDS?

A CEDS is strategy-driven plan for regional economic development. CCRPC, GBIC, and our partners have developed a draft CEDS for West Central Vermont that meets the US Department of Commerce Economic Development Administration’s (EDA) requirements.

Why develop a CEDS?

Adopting a CEDS helps set a strategic course for economic development efforts. An adopted CEDS can also open opportunities for additional Federal funding for economic development efforts and enables the creation of an Economic Development District (EDD).

How long is the public comment period open?

The public comment period will be open until August 12, 2022. Comments will then be aggregated, reviewed, and responded to by the West Central Vermont Strategy Committee in late August and early September 2022.

When will a Final CEDS be released?

The West Central Vermont Strategy Committee will release a Final CEDS in late September 2022. The Final CEDS will then be considered for adoption by the four regional development corporations and four regional planning commissions serving the West Central Vermont Region.

Chittenden County ECOS Partnership Releases 2021
Annual Report:
The State of Chittenden County

Winooski, VT – The Chittenden County ECOS Partnership has released its 2021 ECOS

Annual Report and online data Scorecard.

The ECOS Annual Report summarizes progress toward the goals set in the Chittenden County ECOS Plan, the combined Regional Plan, Metropolitan Transportation Plan and Comprehensive Economic Development Strategy for Chittenden County. The ECOS Plan includes 17 broad goals and 8 key strategies for achieving those goals. ECOS stands for Environment, Community, Opportunity, Sustainability.

The 2021 ECOS Annual Report is the eighth edition. A few notable highlights include:

• Demographics | 99.7% of the population growth in Chittenden County over the last 10 years has been Hispanic (of any race), Black or African American, Asian, American Indian or Native Hawaiian. This equates to 11,746 of the 11,778 people from 2010-2020. This change in demographics is exciting as it brings a diversity of thought, ideas, and innovation to our region.

• Annual Median Household Income | In Chittenden County, Black and African American households earn less than half of White households. If there were wage equity in Vermont, our residents would be making over $188 million dollars of more income, contributing that much more to the economy.

• Homelessness | As of January 2021, homelessness increased to 700 individuals (626 households), compared to 261 individuals (217 households) in 2020. This is the stark reality of mental health services pushed to a breaking point and a severe lack of housing. All data informing the Annual Report is found in the ECOS Scorecard, an interactive online platform that promotes easy access to the indicators that measure how Chittenden County is doing. To access the online platform and track how Chittenden County is doing year to year on a wide variety of topic areas, visit ecosproject.com.

Following the adoption of the ECOS Plan in 2013, the ECOS Partnership formed to keep the focus on implementation. The Partnership includes the Chittenden County Regional Planning Commission, the City of Burlington, Greater Burlington Industrial Corporation, Lake Champlain Chamber, United Way of Northwest Vermont, University of Vermont, University of Vermont Medical Center, and the Vermont Department of Health. The partners remain committed to working together to build upon collaborative successes and address areas of concern.
